The Legend of Sephra

Woven among the threads of ancient Aztec legend lies the story of Sephra, an enchanting goddess whose beauty could be described only as the richness of the dark earth combined with the luster and glow of pure gold. Her voice was softer than the most delicate flower, and her presence carried the aroma of sweet cocoa. It was Sephra who gave the ancient Aztecs the precious gift of the cocoa tree.

The legend reveals that the spirit of Sephra nourished the cocoa trees and lived within the priceless beans they produced. The Aztec kings named the cocoa tree "Theobroma Cacao," meaning "food of the gods." So valuable were cocoa beans that they were used to pay tribute to royalty and were given as sacred offerings to the gods.

The ruler of the wealthy Aztec Empire, was so enchanted by Sephra that he commissioned an elite force of skilled artisans and master craftsmen to construct a temple in her honor. As a special offering to the goddess, Montezuma built a magnificent fountain in the highest room of the temple and filled it with glistening spring water, which flowed from beneath its walls. He then surrounded the fountain with a splendid array of the most perfect cocoa beans, in hopes that Sephra would continue to bless the people with the unique and valuable crop.

So pleased was Sephra with Montezuma's gift that she came to him in a dream and told him her spirit would always live in the fountain he had given her. Moments later, Montezuma awoke to the sweet smell of cocoa lingering in the air.

The aroma led him to the upper room of the temple where Sephra's fountain stood. To his astonishment, the fountain no longer flowed with water, but with the richest, purest chocolate. This was truly a gift from the gods.

For centuries, Sephra's fountain remained hidden beneath the ruins of the ancient Aztec temple, waiting to be discovered. At long last it was, and with it was unveiled the secret of the pure, rich chocolate once coveted by gods and kings.
